1.

Jesus asked Mario if he wanted to go play basketball. Mario said, "No, I'm kind of tired right now." Jesus said, "Well then how about later today?" Mario nodded his head in approval, "that would be okay." Later that day Jesus and Mario played basketball, and had a great time. They left the park and walked all the way home. Right before Mario walked inside his house Jesus asked, "Do you want to play again tomorrow?" Mario answered casually, "sure."

Susan and Sarah were sisters. They loved to do everything together. They bought clothes together, and shared their food with each other. However, one day Susan started to like a boy from school, named Tyler. Susan was fifteen years old, but Tyler was sixteen. One day Sarah asked her sister, "Do you still want to go to the mall today?" Susan said, "No, I want to go see Tyler after school." Sarah got sad and thought her sister didn't like her anymore. Then one day Susan told Sarah, "Don't worry sister, you will always be my best friend."
