Brother and sister, John and Kira were walking home from school on Tuesday. Suddenly a man pulled up next to them in his car, and said, "Excuse me... my cell phone battery is dead, may I use your house phone?" John looked at Kira and said, "We should put our big crazy dog away first. He doesn't like new people." Kira looked at John confused. Then the man asked them, "Oh... your dog is pretty big huh? Uh never mind, I think I remember where I put my phone charger." The man quickly drove off. Kira told John in a serious tone of voice "We don't own a dog." Then John said in a sneaky voice, "Yeah, but he didn't know that."

Wednesday was a special day for the Kindergartners at Slater Elementary. They were going very early in the morning to visit the Oregon Coast Aquarium at Newport. When they finally arrived, a tour guide told everyone, "Please stay with your group so you don't get lost." Many of the students had their parents come on the field trip that day. Many of the parents were telling their children, "Don't touch that... Listen to your teacher... Put that down... Get that out of your mouth..." When the day was done, they began their trip back home. Everyone had a great time, except Bobby, who threw up after eating gum he found on the floor.
