Ilexys was walking to the store one day when all of a sudden a monkey walked in front of her across the street. She was amazed and stopped walking, standing on the sidewalk. Just then another animal, a giraffe, slowly walked in front of her across the street. She covered her mouth in disbelief. Finally she heard many different sounds coming closer. Then there was an elephant, a lion, an ostrich, and a short chubby man wearing a tuxedo and a tall hat, running after the animals with a whistle. He yelled, "Wait, wait, wait!!" Ilexys then thought and laughed out loud, "Is there a circus in town, or leaving town, right now?"

Once upon a time, on a Friday morning, a strong man named Alex was chopping wood. He lived in the forest with his brothers and sisters. One day he looked up in a tree and saw a bald eagle, making a nest. He decided to not cut down the tree, so that it could raise its young. But then he saw in another tree, five squirrels running around, chirping as if they were laughing at him. Alex recognized the squirrels, because they were the sneaky animals stealing his seeds when he tried to plant vegetables and trees. Alex then said out loud, in an angry voice, "Never again! You better find another home," and then began cutting down their tree.
