Samantha's dog Fido was watching her pour dog food into his bowl in the kitchen one Sunday morning. Suddenly Fido noticed a small mouse run across the floor behind Samantha, from one corner to the next. In a split second Samantha was flying through the air, flinging dog food everywhere, as Fido knocked her back to chase the mouse. Fido was barking furiously at a small hole in the wall near the kitchen cabinets. Samantha was puzzled, and said in an angry voice, "Fido, what are you doing?!...Oh, did you see the mouse again? Well now you have enough food for breakfast, lunch, and dinner."

Brittany and Katy were putting saddles on their horses one day, when all of a sudden they saw some straps that had been chewed on. Brittany said, "It could be mice." Katy said, "Well maybe, but my brother likes chewing on these straps too. It's so gross." Surprised, Brittany asked Katy, "Why does he do that?" Katy responded, "Because last year he was looking for beef jerky, and saw some leather straps on the kitchen counter. He wasn't wearing his glasses and tried eating them. He told me it was the weirdest beef jerky he had ever eaten. I told him it was leather straps, but he didn't care." Brittany was shocked and said, "Maybe I'll keep my saddle at my house from now on."
